

PlantLife

No 39 & 40 • 2010
ISSN 1018-4996

CONTENTS

- 2 Editorial
- 3 The genus Gerbera in summer-rainfall
South Africa
Isabel Johnson
- 18 The Kanas National Geopark: the ‘Alps
of Asia’
Clinton Carbutt
- 24 A new species of Emplectanthus from eastern South Africa
David Styles
- 33 The ‘Mop’ or ‘Umbrella’ sedges
K.D. Gordon-Gray & C.J. Ward
- 38 Mahwaqa – the frowning mountain
Esther Alm
- 45 An adaptation of Reyneke’s key to the genus *Eucomis
Neil R. Crouch
- 53 The discovery of the genus
Pseudoprospero in KwaZulu-Natal
David Styles
- 59 The Bolboschoenus story in sub-Saharan Africa: personal recollections
K.D. Gordon-Gray
- 66 An introduction to the Four-O’Clocks of southern Africa
Madeleen Struwig & Stefan Siebert

Front Cover:

Gerbera aurantiaca by Gillian Condy. Reproduced from Flowering Plants of Africa 59: t. 2220, with the kind permission of the South African National Biodiversity Institute, Pretoria.

Back Cover:

Pseudoprospero firmifolium subsp. natalensis.

PlantLife is a journal for everyone concerned about the conservation of our indigenous flora, particularly amateur botanists. It provides a forum for communication amongst lay people and bridges the gap between them and the professional world by combining the needs and interests of both groups. The ultimate aim of PlantLife is to encourage the highest level of management of our indigenous flora for the benefit of the land and its people.